

Transfer and You!

Amber Rockwell graduated from CCBC with an Associate degree in Secondary Education before moving on to Notre Dame of Maryland. She was a member of Phi Theta Kappa and held a 3.7 while at CCBC. During her studies at Notre Dame she majored in mathematics and was on the National Deans List. Amber was a Who's Who recipient, treasurer of the Morrissey Honors Program, and a representative the finance committee. After her graduation from Notre Dame of Maryland in May of 2006, Amber started out her teaching career with the Baltimore County Public School system.

Amber Rockwell is a fine example of what the CCBC transfer process can do for you. With the right amount of planning and advisement, CCBC graduates are able to transfer into dozens of colleges and universities, with minimum credit loss. The opportunities really open up with transfer scholarships, and other aid for exceptional community college grads.
