DEAR FRIEND OF CCBC:

Here at CCBC, we take immense pride in helping students unleash the power of their potential. We make it our mission to provide them with the support, preparation and experiences that take them where they want to go—often far beyond where they may have imagined.

It is not by happenstance that students discover and achieve their potential at CCBC. With intention, steadfast purpose and clarity of vision, CCBC cultivates opportunity at all levels, in and out of the classroom and throughout our community.

As highlighted throughout this special 2019 YEAR IN REVIEW edition of EMERGE, there are endless reasons we can all be “PROUD TO BE CCBC.”

Here’s to helping deserving, hardworking families avoid the burden of college debt with College Promise scholarships that enable college-ready students to earn degrees and workplace credentials tuition-free.

Here’s to partnering with local industry leaders and Baltimore County Public Schools to launch a Pathways to Technology high school that prepares students for in-demand engineering careers while completing their high school diplomas and associate degrees.

Here’s to earning the distinction of being one of only two community colleges in the nation to hold accreditations in all four arts disciplines—Dance, Theatre, Art and Music—while remaining one of the TOP 100 community colleges awarding associate degrees.

These are just a few of the many points of pride that illustrate how CCBC guides aspirations into achievement. We are proud to share them with you, our friends and supporters, who enable us to realize our mission.

Whether looking back on FY2019 or glimpsing ahead, we can take immense pride in being CCBC. Thank you for helping us continue to show the world how to “Rethink what’s possible!”

Sincerely,

Sandra L. Kurtinitis, Ph.D.
President

1960s

Richard Thomas Webb ’66 (Business Administration/Accounting) was SGA president at then-CCC. After graduation he worked for C&P Telephone Company for 25 years and then served as president and CEO of Atlantic Financial FCU for 19 years. Richard is currently a principal at Visions International Inc., a CCBC adjunct faculty member, Maryland election judge, certified marriage officiant and certified casino dealer. He volunteers with various organizations including the Baltimore Orioles Designated Hitter program.

1980s

Deborah Jean McCadden Miller ’85 (Nursing) is currently an assistant professor in the CCBC Nursing program. Debbie began her career as an obstetrical nurse at Francis Scott Key Medical Center, later transferring to MedStar Franklin Square where she worked for 25 years. Debbie earned her bachelor’s and master’s degrees in Nursing Education from Notre Dame of Maryland University and is currently on the CCBC alumni board. She and her husband of 36 years, John, have three sons and four grandchildren.

1990s

Terry Zentz Walter ’93 (Business) began her 30-year CCBC career as English department secretary on the Essex campus, then moved to the Dundalk campus and became assistant to the director of Admissions/Enrollment Development. In 2000 she became administrative assistant to the director of the Travel Studies office and is currently the coordinator of the Travel Studies program. Terry lives in Perry Hall, Md. with her husband of 47 years.

2000s

Juernene Banks-Ferrell ’06 (General Studies) has worked for the past 13 years as lead national merger in the I.T. Department for RadNet Inc. She is currently a part-time student at University of Baltimore, pursuing a degree in Health System Management. For the past two years, Juernene has also been an independent consultant for Paparazzi Accessories. She is the mother of two children and lives in Windsor Mill, Md.

2010s

Kareem Wallace ’16 (Business Administration) graduated from CCBC and then transferred to Towson University, where he majored in Economics with a minor in Business Administration. While at TU he has been a board member of the Towson Investment Group and the real estate club. Kareem graduated from TU in May 2019 and is currently pursuing a master’s degree in Business Administration at the University of Maryland Global Campus.

Jacqueline Bullard ’17 (General Studies) graduated from CCBC with honors, and went on to earn a BA in Communications from UMUC, where she was the student commencement speaker. She is now pursuing a Master of Arts degree in Strategic Communications while working in the Office of the Campus Director at CCBC Dundalk. Jacqueline is a published author and loves to travel with her husband and children.

CCBC’S 13TH ANNUAL GALA

SATURDAY, APRIL 4, 2020 • 7–11:30 P.M.
MARTIN’S WEST, WOODLAWN, MARYLAND
COCKTAILS • DINNER • DANCING • CASINO • SILENT AUCTION

Save the date
Martin’s West in Woodlawn, Md. was aglow at the CCBC True Colors Gala: Celebrating the Creativity and Innovation of ADiM. More than 700 guests gathered on April 6, 2019 to celebrate and support the college’s Art, Design and Interactive Media program.

As is tradition for this annual event, the gala featured, dinner, dancing and casino games. A silent auction—showcasing the artistic work of CCBC faculty, staff and alumni through photography, painting, pottery and various digital designs—raised more than $200,000 in support of student scholarships and programs.

Highlights of the evening were a moving rendition of Cyndi Lauper’s “True Colors” by CCBC Performing Arts students, and the work of CCBC alumnus and live artist Bernard Bagalso, who illustrated in real time the night’s activities.
PERFECT PAIRING: Students and scholarships

Women in Philanthropy at CCBC hosted Women & Wine, a wine tasting event with local expert Mary-Kay McAllister, at the CCBC Catonsville Hilton Center on June 18. McAllister guided guests through a hand-picked selection of five Old World Italian Wines and worked with CCBC Dining Services Head Chef Kevin Bethke to create unique wine and small-bite pairings.

Proceeds from the event benefitted the Women in Philanthropy at CCBC endowment fund. Each year, the fund provides $1,000 to each of three women students who are seeking a better life through education at CCBC.

Founded in 2013, Women in Philanthropy at CCBC brings together women who share common philanthropic goals to benefit women studying at CCBC. In addition to providing scholarship support, the organization stimulates positive change by increasing the involvement, networks and personal development of all women involved.

To learn more or to join, contact Tori Burns at 443.840.3617 or tburns4@ccbcmd.edu.

Summer research at JHU

During summer 2019, a group of five CCBC Honors students were admitted to the Mellon Scholar Summer Research Experience as part of the Mellon Foundation-funded Humanities for All project.

The JHU Humanities Collaboratory introduces high-achieving humanities students from CCBC and from historically black colleges and universities across the country to the techniques of humanities research while building a learning community around a project.

JHU models the 10-week paid residential program after scientific lab research. While each student works towards an individual research project; everyone gathers in one location to engage and observe their peers and instructors.

Students selected for the Mellon Scholar Summer Research Experience receive a competitive stipend, allowing them to focus on their educational goals. They select classes in a variety of research topics, and travel to the Leadership Alliance National Symposium where they present research, network and take advantage of professional development opportunities.

Since its inception, Women in Philanthropy has raised more than $35,000 in support of women students at CCBC.
Celebrating a winning year

The past year proved to be one of notable achievements for CCBC Athletics, with two college teams winning Region XX titles. The CCBC Essex Men’s Soccer team captured their seventh consecutive and 30th overall NJCAA Division I Region XX Championship, while the CCBC Essex Men’s Cross Country team also earned a NJCAA Division I Region XX crown.

On the women’s side, the CCBC Catonsville Lady Cardinals won the Maryland JUCO Softball Conference title. The program has won seven of the last 10 and 14 overall state softball championships.

For the academic year, CCBC student-athletes combined to earn 102 athletic awards at the conference, regional, and national level. More importantly, 41 student-athletes earned community college academic awards for demonstrating excellence in the classroom. CCBC Athletics had a record eighteen student-athletes named NJCAA Academic All-Americans. Due to the hard work and generosity of many people, CCBC provided more than $194,744 in tuition assistance to 195 student-athletes.

The CCBC Athletics Hall of Fame saw 26 new members inducted at its annual ceremony in December 2018. This brought the organization’s total to 203 members. The event honors the very best of 61 years of intercollegiate athletics at CCBC’s three campuses. (See page 12 for a photo from the ceremony.)

This year, CCBC Athletics raised $3,180 during its community service project for abused and neglected children served by the Ed Block Courage Award Foundation. Over the past seven years, CCBC student-athletes and staff have raised $23,684 for this cause.

In the college’s newly revitalized intramural program, 747 participants engaged in basketball, bowling, flag football, kickball, soccer and volleyball.
Applauding generosity

For more than a decade, the CCBC Foundation has worked collaboratively with the college’s faculty and staff to raise funds for student scholarships and programs. The growth of the college’s annual Employee Giving Campaign has been nothing short of phenomenal, with contributions increasing from $27,000 in 2005, the first year of the combined college campaign, to $144,800 in fiscal year 2019.

“The goal of the campaign is to create a culture of philanthropy,” said Ann-Marie Thornton, CFRE, director of Development and Alumni Relations. “We want to get employees in the habit of supporting the institution’s priorities and provide them with compelling reasons to do so. It is about creating meaningful relationships with employees that inspire and impact change.”

Dollars raised through the campaign support student scholarships for tuition and fees; transportation or housing assistance through the Student Emergency Fund; purchasing state-of-the art technology and equipment for the Eustis Health Professions building; and funding academic excellence through the Mark McColloch fund.

Expanding health care apprenticeships

CCBC’s apprenticeship programs have been recognized through two grant awards that will expand the number and type of apprenticeships available in the greater Baltimore area.

CCBC’s grant project, Health Care Apprenticeships: A Model for Maryland and the Nation, has been awarded $1,995,645 by the U.S. Department of Labor to serve 800 health care-related pre-apprentices and apprentices. The goal is to develop three industry-recognized models to create a pipeline for entry-level employment for central service technicians and medical front office, while simultaneously helping train existing entry-level staff and new hires to become medical assistants through a new state-registered apprenticeship.

CCBC will also receive $140,000 through the American Association of Community Colleges’ Expanding Community College Apprenticeships initiative to create the CCBC Apprenticeship Center. Along with two new apprenticeship programs, this will increase the number of apprentices enrolled at CCBC by 162 or more. Both projects will enable college administrators to strengthen apprenticeship efforts through innovative approaches and practices.
Supporting entrepreneurs

The Phillip E. and Carole R. Ratcliffe Foundation awarded CCBC a $1,077,395 grant to fund the expansion of the college’s Center for Business Innovation. The goal is to increase the success, sustain the involvement and build a strong network of support for CCBC students and alumni aspiring to become small-business owners.

CBI serves CCBC students and alumni interested in learning how to turn their ideas for new products, services, or a business into something sustainable. The Center offers entrepreneurial-minded students and alumni services such as scholarships for coursework, workshops to strengthen business acumen, mentoring and professional coaching services, and networking opportunities.

The annual Business Plan Competition addresses the challenge of acquiring startup capital. Thanks to Ratcliffe Foundation funding, a total of $62,500 in prize money is available to entrepreneurs armed with solid business plans. The first-place winner of the competition receives $20,000 to support their business endeavor.

President Kurtinitis named AACC Board of Directors chair

CCBC President Sandra Kurtinitis began a new leadership position as chair of the board of directors of the American Association of Community Colleges for the 2018-2019 term. She led a 32-member board and presided over the 2019 AACC convention.

AACC is the primary advocacy organization for the nation’s community colleges, and represents nearly 1,200 two-year, associate degree-granting institutions serving more than 12 million students.

CCBC celebrates community with July 4th parade floats

CCBC’s community pride was in full display during this year’s Independence Day parades. Throughout parade routes in Catonsville, Dundalk and Towson, CCBC faculty, staff, students and friends enthusiastically promoted CCBC’s service to Baltimore County.

The CCBC Catonsville float theme was “Fishing for Knowledge.” The CCBC Essex float represented “Veterans Services: Honoring Those Who Serve.” The CCBC Dundalk “Rosie the Riveter” float was awarded “Best Commercial Float” and “Best Theme for Saluting America” honors in the Dundalk community parade.

Summer theatre blends comedy and Gershwin

The melodies of George and Ira Gershwin filled the Mainstage of Cockpit in Court Summer Theatre during the production of Nice Work If You Can Get It, a screwball comedy poking fun at the Prohibition era. Musical highlights included “Let’s Call the Whole Thing Off” and “Someone to Watch Over Me.”

Cockpit in Court Summer Theatre has offered professional-quality live theatre for over 40 years. More than 8,000 people enjoy Cockpit productions each year, with more than a hundred area artists, performers, directors and musicians offering their talents on stage and behind the scenes.

Students explore College Promise scholarship opportunities

As part of a summer-long outreach to promote the new Baltimore County College Promise scholarship, CCBC invited students and their families to a series of on-campus information sessions focusing on this tuition-free educational opportunity. Presenters focused on scholarship program criteria and its benefits, requirements and the application process.

The college invited Baltimore County 2017 and 2018 high school and home-school graduates and their parents, and General Education Diploma students who had earned their GEDs within the past two years.

The Baltimore County College Promise Scholarship program covers tuition and mandatory fees for qualifying students to complete an associate degree or workplace credential at CCBC.
National Science Foundation awards CCBC $1.3 million for STEM Core Network initiative

CCBC received $1.3 million via two new grants from the National Science Foundation to support the implementation of the STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) Core Network initiative in Maryland. This is a partnership of nationwide scientific and technical employers, community colleges, and workforce agencies focused on expanding the pipeline of students for engineering and computer science careers.

A $599,000 NSF grant supports implementation of STEM Core in central Maryland in collaboration with Anne Arundel Community College. This partnership will allow 135 students who express interest in careers in cybersecurity to participate in the STEM Core initiative over a three-year period.

In addition, CCBC received $738,684 to participate in a 30-college network as part of the NSF-funded STEM Core Expansion Alliance. CCBC will serve as one of four regional hubs coordinating technical support and professional development for faculty, counselors and student support specialists.

Seven CCBC alumni artists participated in Working in Progress, the first alumni art residency and exhibit at CCBC Essex. Utilizing studio space at the Galleries at CCBC Essex, artists created works using media such as ceramics, fiber arts, painting, photography, woodwork and more.

Visitors were able to watch artists’ work develop over the life of the exhibition, learning about their techniques, processes and artistic inspirations. A final exhibition and reception were open to the community.

ConnectFest events engage incoming students

Hundreds of new and returning students across the college turned out for CCBC ConnectFest events held at the beginning of fall semester classes. In a festive and supportive atmosphere, CCBC faculty, staff and student leaders guided CCBC students on how to make the most of their CCBC education.

Promoting student engagement, retention and success, each fair offered opportunities to meet new people, connect with student organizations, support services and resources, learn about CCBC’s academic PATHWAYS, interact with faculty, explore career and college goals, and more.

CCBC awarded educational fundraising award

The Council for Advancement and Support of Education honored CCBC for its fundraising efforts with the 2019 CASE Educational Fundraising Award. CCBC was one of 90 colleges, universities and independent schools nationwide to be recognized for solid fundraising program growth and breadth of support, among other factors.

In 2017, CCBC completed its first major capital campaign, “New Beginnings.” The campaign raised $57.3 million from 10,364 donors, far surpassing its original goal of $42 million and setting a new standard of giving at CCBC.

P-TECH helps make high school students career-ready

With the support of local businesses Alban CAT, KCI Technologies, Stanley Black & Decker, and Whiting-Turner, CCBC and Baltimore County Public Schools launched Pathways in Technology Early College High School, or P-TECH, at Dundalk High School. This innovative partnership provides students with smooth transitions through high school, college and the professional world while helping to fill the skills gap in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) fields—growth sectors promising high-paying jobs.

Funded by a grant from the Maryland State Department of Education, the P-TECH initiative is the first of its kind in Baltimore County. The 61 freshmen comprising this inaugural class enjoy field trips, guest speakers, paid internships and first consideration for jobs with the partner companies following successful program completion. Graduates can earn their high school diplomas concurrently with associate degrees in Engineering Technology, and also gain practical, on-the-job skills training.

Alums reconnect and rediscover CCBC during Alumni and Friends Weekend

More than 60 CCBC alumni and friends reunited with classmates at the college’s Second Annual Alumni and Friends Weekend at CCBC Essex.

The two-day event kicked off with the wildly popular CCBC Alumni Crab Feast, featuring good food, music, games and prizes. Other weekend activities included class reunions, the President’s State of the College breakfast with Dr. Sandra Kurtinitis, educational workshops, Alumni and Friends brunch, and campus tours.

Children’s Playhouse of Maryland presents Cole Porter’s ‘Anything Goes’

The Children’s Playhouse of Maryland, in residence at CCBC Essex, presented the musical Anything Goes as the centerpiece of its 12th Annual Fundraising Gala. The production featured more than 35 area student-actors in a classic “boy meets girl” story, punctuated by rousing tap-dancing numbers and hit tunes.

Guests also enjoyed raffles, a silent auction, and dessert reception. Proceeds support CPM’s efforts to help children gain confidence, a sense of responsibility and accomplishment, and an appreciation for the arts through performance experiences.

Budding entrepreneurs take advantage of free business workshops

To help great ideas grow into successful businesses, CCBC’s Center for Business Innovation offered aspiring entrepreneurs the opportunity to attend “Business Ownership: A Realistic Preview of Opening a New Business.” This free, full-day program provided access to resources, tips and strategies for turning ideas for new products and services into sustainable businesses.

Qualified participants could also participate in CCBC’s Center for Business Innovation’s Annual Business Plan Competition. Winning proposals earn support for a start-up business and up to $10,000 in seed money.
CCBC Dance program earns accreditation

The National Association of Schools of Dance has approved CCBC’s Dance program for initial accreditation, making CCBC one of only two community colleges in the nation to hold national accreditation in all four arts disciplines: Theatre, Music, Dance and Visual Arts. CCBC Dance offers a rigorous program of dance technique, creative courses, performance opportunities and strong dance academics leading to either of two degrees—Associate of Fine Arts: Dance, Fine and Performing Arts, and Associate of Arts: Dance, Humanities and Social Sciences.

Students in the program gain personal instruction through small class sizes, study with experienced faculty who are working professionals, and are exposed to a broad spectrum of dance—from classical ballet to modern dance. CCBC Dance program alumni include internationally renowned choreographer, dancer and movement director Peter Pucci (Peter Pucci Plus Dancers, Pucci Sport), and dancer, choreographer and CCBC Adjunct Faculty Adrienne Kraus Latanishen (The Collective; Blue Shift Dance Company).

Banneker Planetarium at CCBC Catonsville debuts ‘Earthquake’

CCBC’s Benjamin Banneker Planetarium hosted the much-anticipated debut of Earthquake, a dynamic and visually stimulating presentation exploring forces that transform the surface of our planet. Earthquake takes spectators on a stunning flight over the San Andreas Fault, traveling back in time to experience San Francisco’s infamous 1906 earthquake. The program reveals how geological activity has impacted the Earth and influenced the course of human history. Produced by the California Academy of Sciences, Earthquake is sponsored by BGE.

CCBC makes Military Times’ Best for Vets: Colleges 2019 list

CCBC is among an elite group of two-year colleges to be ranked on Military Times’ Best for Vets: Colleges 2019 list. Thirty-three colleges earned the title, with CCBC the only Maryland community college listed. The independent rankings are based on an assessment of veteran and military student services and rates of academic achievement, as well as public data collected by federal agencies. CCBC offers a variety of supports and resources to its more than 2,000 military-connected students, with Veteran Service Centers located on each of the college’s three main campuses.
Athletics Hall of Fame inducts 26 honorees
The CCBC Athletics Hall of Fame Committee, under the leadership of Chairman George Henderson, selected 26 individuals to be inducted in 2018.
In its eighth year, the CCBC Athletics Hall of Fame now has a total of 203 honorees.
The Hall of Fame honors former student-athletes, former and current coaches, and athletic administrators and staff for outstanding contributions to athletics throughout CCBC.

CCBC programs celebrated during National Apprenticeship Week
In celebration of National Apprenticeship Week, CCBC was selected for a site visit by the Maryland Department of Labor. Using the theme Apprenticeship Works!, the Department of Labor spotlighted apprenticeship programs at CCBC and throughout the state, promoting the opportunities they present for successful careers. Maryland Lt. Governor Boyd Rutherford and Chris MacLarion, Maryland Department of Labor director of apprenticeships, were among those marking the event at CCBC.
CCBC offers several registered apprenticeship programs where students receive supervised, structured, on-the-job training with occupation-specific technical instruction, collaborating with both union and non-union partners.

Veterinary Technology Center receives $1.2 million renovation
Following a yearlong construction effort, CCBC celebrated the opening of its newly renovated Veterinary Technology Center at CCBC Essex. The 4,100-square-foot facility includes a combined student lab and classroom, surgical and recovery area, microscope lab, in-house lab, radiography room, wellness clinic with two exam rooms, office space, flexible learning space, kennel rooms and more. The final cost of construction was approximately $1.2 million.

“We pride ourselves in providing our students with a learning experience that matches what they will find in the workplace,” said CCBC President Sandra Kurtinitis. “This renovation gives the students a dynamic environment in which to learn and study, and elevates the facility to be on par with the quality instruction students already receive.”
CCBC’s Veterinary Technology program was established in 1976 and accredited in 1978. Graduates find employment in a variety of health care settings such as veterinary clinics and hospitals, emergency and referral hospitals, zoological parks, aquariums and laboratories.
DECEMBER

CCBC awarded $100,000 through Metallica Scholars Initiative

Legendary rock band Metallica, through their All Within My Hands foundation, awarded CCBC a $100,000 Metallica Scholars Initiative grant. This major workforce education initiative provides direct support to community colleges to enhance their career and technical education programs, providing skills and services to students who are looking to enter a traditional trade or other applied learning program.

CCBC is one of 10 community colleges from across the country chosen through a competitive proposal process to receive the grant. The funding will enable 40 CCBC students to pursue careers in medical front office training, and building and apartment maintenance—career paths that can lead to sustainable jobs that can support families.

Partnering with the American Association of Community Colleges, a Washington, D.C.-based organization representing the nation’s 1,103 community colleges, the Metallica Scholars awards support job skill training for community college students, reinvest in communities that supported Metallica during its recent U.S. tours, and leverage the influence of Metallica to elevate the importance of career and technical education.

Musical performances offer holiday entertainment

In celebration of the holiday season, several CCBC performing arts groups offered a series of free concerts for students, faculty, staff, and community visitors.

At CCBC Catonsville, Music department students offered a diverse program of vocal and instrumental music. The CCBC Chamber Singers offered two Winter Concert performances of varied classical and popular repertoire, including holiday selections, at CCBC Essex. Also at CCBC Essex, the ever-popular Powerhouse Jazz Ensemble performed jazz standards, original works, and big band favorites.

Academic Theatre at CCBC Essex presents musical adaption of 'Working'

Based on the book by Studs Terkel and adapted by Steven Swartz, the musical Working paints a vivid portrait of the American working men and women that the world so often takes for granted. Academic Theatre at CCBC Essex presented a 2012 adaption of this unique work, featuring songs by Lin-Manuel Miranda, Mary Rodgers and Susan Birkenhead, James Taylor and others. Bill Barry, former director of Labor Studies at CCBC [retired], joined the cast and crew for a talk-back following the opening performance.

Academic Theatre at CCBC provides students with opportunities to experience, perform, and learn about theatre from a global perspective.

Winning entrepreneurs share $28K in prizes in Business Plan Competition
CCBC’s Center for Business Innovation hosted its Sixth Annual Business Plan Competition, awarding seed money totaling $28,500 to the top six finalists.
This year’s first-place winner, Glenn Smith, received $10,000 and start-up resources for his business idea: Having a Seat at the Table, an event planning and niche company specializing in renting luxury chairs, tables, and accessories for events.
In addition to prize money, award winners work with CCBC’s top Business students, who provide support in marketing, sales, website development, accounting, and human resources to help the new entrepreneurs launch their businesses.

Mental Health First Aid offered for CASE: Single Step staff
As part of a national initiative to increase mental health literacy, the Center for Alternative and Supported Education: Single Step offered a course in Mental Health First Aid Training for their staff at CCBC Dundalk.
During this full-day training, CASE: Single Step staff learned tools to identify when someone might be struggling with a mental health or substance use problem, and how to connect them with appropriate support and resources.
For nearly 45 years, CCBC has been changing lives by providing classes and career options for adults with cognitive, developmental, and mental health disabilities through CASE: Single Step.

Sealant Saturday offers free dental services for children
In what has become a popular annual event, the CCBC Dental Hygiene program hosted Sealant Saturday on Feb. 23 at CCBC Dundalk.
Area children ages 6-17 received free dental examinations, fluoride treatments and protective coatings for permanent molars to help prevent tooth decay. CCBC’s Dental Hygiene students performed the services under the supervision of a licensed dentist and Dental Hygiene program faculty.

Events college-wide honor Black History Month
CCBC’s Office of Intercultural Engagement hosted a variety of interactive and informative events across the college in celebration of Black History Month. Some of them were:
• A series of talks focusing on “A Lesson on Culture,” students explored their cultural script in the context of the cultures they have been exposed to through family, friends, school, work, hobbies and spiritual life.
• An open discussion on “Who is African American?” explored where first-, second- and third-generation immigrants from Africa and the diaspora fit into North America’s “racial categories” and racial legacies.
• Partnering with the Progressive Student Alliance they hosted an informal, café-style conversation focused on “The Missing Link in Black history: It Doesn’t Start with Slavery.”

Massage Therapy certificate focuses on Integrative Healthcare
In partnership with the National Certification Board for Therapeutic Massage and Bodywork, CCBC now offers students the chance to earn a Specialty Certificate in Massage Therapy for Integrative Health Care. CCBC is one of only two colleges nationally to offer this opportunity to its graduates.
“Health care facilities are finally recognizing the important role massage therapists play in the overall health of a patient—managing pain, reducing stress and more,” said CCBC Massage Therapy Director Robin Anderson.

Student artwork showcased in ’Becoming 2019’
The Galleries at CCBC Catonsville and CCBC Essex were dual sites for “Becoming 2019,” a juried exhibition showcasing the best work created by CCBC art students enrolled in the Portfolio class. This class is the capstone course for Art students and is designed to help them create bodies of work to build professional portfolios.
CCBC Art student Zachary Greek, whose work was featured in the CCBC Essex exhibit, said the overall experience was remarkable. “This is where I’ve felt the most connected to a group of students, creating great friendships as we have grown throughout the semester.”
The CCBC Art, Design and Interactive Media (ADiM) department hosted the exhibits at each gallery.
CCBC welcomes ‘me too.’
Movement founder Tarana Burke

CCBC President Sandra Kurtinitis welcomed social activist and founder of the ‘me too.’ Movement, Tarana Burke, as the guest lecturer for the 2019 President’s Distinguished African-American Lecture Series. Burke shared her personal journey from “victim to survivor to thriver,” telling her story as creator of what is now an international movement that supports survivors of sexual assault and harassment.

A sexual assault survivor herself, Burke has dedicated more than 25 years of her life to social justice issues and laying the groundwork for a movement that was initially created to help young women of color who survived sexual abuse and assault. The movement now inspires solidarity, amplifies the voices of thousands of victims of sexual abuse, and puts the focus back on survivors.

Burke was the genesis of the 2017 TIME Person of the Year-winning ‘me too.’ Movement, and is dedicated to supporting other survivors and those who work to end sexual violence.

CCBC partners with Baltimore County Public Schools to host College Fair 2019

In co-sponsorship with Baltimore County Public Schools, CCBC hosted College Fair 2019 events at CCBC Catonsville and CCBC Essex.

Representatives from more than 100 universities, colleges, proprietary and military schools, including CCBC, were on hand to speak with students and parents. Area high school students take advantage of these annual events to help determine options and next steps in their academic journeys.

CCBC Professor named 2019 Solar System Ambassador

After completing required online training by NASA’s Jet Propulsion Laboratory of Pasadena, Calif., CCBC Associate Professor of Science David Ludwikoski was named a 2019 Solar System Ambassador.

In this role, Ludwikoski will present at least four programs per year under the Solar System Ambassador banner. These include some presentations at CCBC’s Benjamin Banneker Planetarium, as well as others within the Greater Baltimore region. Volunteer Solar System Ambassadors in communities throughout the country are selected by JPL, based on their backgrounds and their plans for public outreach activities.

Students travel to Annapolis to lobby for college affordability

Joining hundreds of fellow students from across Maryland, 18 CCBC students traveled to the state capital for the annual Community College Student Advocacy Day. Maryland state senators and delegates addressed the assembled students, who then had the opportunity to speak one-on-one with legislators like Delegate Eric Ebersole [above, second from left]. During these small-group meetings, students encouraged lawmakers to increase community college affordability and access.
Global Education Leadership Lecture focuses on climate change

Each April, the Murthy/Reihl Global Education Leadership Lecture Series—hosted by CCBC’s Global Education program—brings notable and influential speakers to the college to discuss critical issues that impact our global community. This year’s lecture focused on an issue that is particularly timely and of worldwide significance: climate change.

The event’s featured speaker was Shaun Martin, senior director of Climate Change Adaptation and Resilience for the World Wildlife Fund. White led an engaging and informative discussion on The Impact of Climate Change and How It Affects Us.

The Murthy/Reihl Global Education Leadership Lecture Series was established in 2012 by Sheela Murthy, noted immigration attorney and close friend of the college. An endowment supports this annual event in honor of the late Dr. Donna Reihl, former dean of Continuing Education at CCBC.

2019 gala spotlights CCBC’s ‘True Colors’

Always an exciting evening of dining, dancing and entertainment, the 12th annual CCBC gala certainly lived up to expectations. The 2019 theme, True Colors: Celebrating the Creativity and Innovation of ADIM! showcased the creative energy of CCBC’s Art, Design and Interactive Media program.

See page 3 for more about this vibrant event.

Lacrosse fundraiser benefits homeless shelters

For a second consecutive season, CCBC Essex Athletics partnered with Lace up with LAX to host a fundraiser in support of people experiencing homelessness.

During the CCBC Essex men’s and women’s lacrosse games against Potomac State College of West Virginia University, volunteers collected new children’s shoes to be donated to Empower4Life, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that works to decrease the negative health impacts of homelessness on children by providing structured fitness activities and wellness education.

Also a non-profit organization, Lace Up With LAX works to provide children who are homeless a new pair of shoes and in turn, a step toward a brighter future.

Seney named head Women’s Basketball coach

CCBC Essex Athletics named Mike Seney as the new head coach for Women’s Basketball.

Prior to coming to CCBC, Seney led the Women’s Basketball team at Harford Community College (Bel Air, Md.). He compiled a 135-15 (.900) overall record, made four NJCAA Division I Women’s Basketball National Tournament appearances, and won five straight NJCAA Region XX Division I and Maryland Juco tournament championships.

Seney currently has an 82-game winning streak as head coach against conference opponents.
Grads, alumni and families gather for CCBC GradFest

More than 500 guests—including 141 members of the CCBC Class of 2019—gathered on the grounds of CCBC Essex to join in the fun of CCBC’s annual GradFest.

Graduates and alumni enjoyed a backyard style barbecue and great entertainment. Family-friendly activities included face painting, balloon animals, wildlife exhibit, portraits by a caricature artist and graduation regalia photos. New this year, “Touch a Truck,” hosted by Alban CAT, was a big hit with guests of all ages.

Nursing students benefit from new dual admission agreement with UMSON

An agreement of dual admission between CCBC and the University of Maryland School of Nursing now enables a smooth transition from CCBC’s Associate Degree in Nursing program to UMSON’s Bachelor of Science in Nursing program.

CCBC is the 13th community college in the state where students can apply to, be admitted to, and begin taking classes in UMSON’s BSN program while still working toward their associate degree, saving them time in completing both degrees. CCBC students will also receive transfer credits from UMSON for completed coursework at the community college.

College professionals, administrators and faculty honored with Emeritus status

Eleven retired/retiring professionals, administrators and faculty members have been inducted into the ranks of Emeritus Professor during a ceremony at CCBC Dundalk. Candidates must have had a distinguished career and have also contributed to helping improve the strength, growth and integrity of the college. This year’s 11 inductees bring to 205 the number of those awarded CCBC Emeritus status.

Upward Bound guides students to success in college

In its 15th year at CCBC Dundalk, Upward Bound serves the community as an intensive enrichment and college preparation program, enhancing the academic and personal growth of low-income and potential first-generation college students.

Rising ninth through 11th grade students attending Chesapeake, Dundalk, Kenwood, Parkville, Patapsco and Overlea high schools have the opportunity to attend a Summer Success Institute that builds upon their academic-year experiences. This six-week session maintains a focus on academic instruction and advising, while including additional enrichment activities like recreational outings, cultural events, overnight college tours and success skills training.

Upward Bound’s Summer and Academic components work together to help students excel throughout high school and succeed in college, and embrace a sense of curiosity and confidence in career exploration.

Lejla Heric-Safadi named 2019 President’s Distinguished Graduate

As this year’s President’s Distinguished Graduate Award recipient, Lejla Heric-Safadi delivered the featured address to nearly 1,000 graduates and thousands more family and friends gathered at CCBC Essex for the college’s June 1 commencement ceremony.

A Bosnian immigrant, Heric-Safadi is one who views challenges as opportunities. With a desire to improve her economic situation, she enrolled at CCBC.

She excelled in the Honors program, served in leadership positions for Phi Theta Kappa, and became a First Year Experience Mentor as well as a Mellon Scholar.

Lejla now attends the Honors University at UMBC, where she is pursuing a bachelor’s degree in Public Health.

INSTRUCTION
Provides expenditure for instructional activities conducted during the academic year and offered as part of a formal post-secondary education degree or certificate program.

MANDATORY TRANSFERS
Provides expenditure resulting from:
• Binding legal agreements related to the financing of plant assets, including amounts for debt retirement and interest.
• Sponsored program agreements with federal agencies, donors and other organizations to match gifts or grants. This program includes funds required to support grants and includes:
  ➤ Adult education grants.
  ➤ Supplemental educational opportunity grants.
  ➤ Work-study program.
  ➤ Other restricted programs.

INSTITUTIONAL SUPPORT
Includes executive and supporting administrative units that provide services to the entire college community, including:
• Administrative data processing.
• Central executive level activities.
• Employee personnel and records.
• Fiscal operations.
• Logistical activities that provide procurement, storerooms, safety, security, printing and transportation.
• Other support not operated by auxiliary enterprises, alumni relations and fundraising.

STUDENT SERVICES
Provides expenditure related to admissions and registrar services and to activities that contribute to students’ emotional and physical well-being. It promotes intellectual, cultural and social development outside the context of formal instruction programs.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE OF PLANT
Provides expenditure related to the operation and maintenance of the physical plant, including:
• Custodial services.
